Pursuant to the terms and conditions of the Award, this authorization:

The University of Alaska Fairbanks (UAF) College of Rural & Community Development will provide two 19-day intensive courses that will concentrate on health care skills training; college credit that meets health care related degree requirements within the University of Alaska system; and hands-on experiences that encourage participants to continue their education or enter a health care career in the communities of Galena and Kotzebue.

The Academies will provide hands-on experiences that engage participants' interest in health care careers and encourage them to continue their education or enter a health care career directly. Participants will receive hands-on Firefighter Training with the Aniak Dragon Slayers; serve as team leaders in simulated emergency situations; work with volunteer health care professionals to learn interview skills, business manners and customer service that will help to secure a health care job.

Participants will gain employability skills and education through hands-on learning and academic coursework. Participants will have a clear understanding of health career opportunities, their own skills as they apply to their chosen health field, and the need to obtain further education or experience. Each participant will earn six University of Alaska college credits, five of which will go towards a certificate or degree in a health care field.
